I participated in genome science course at Primate Research Institute. During this course, we analyzed fecal samples of Japanese macaques and Yaku-sika deer, which were collected at Yakushima field science course. It was the first time for me to analyze genetic information of wild animals. I am sure that this experience will be useful to me for future study.

I would like to thank PWS for inviting me to this course, and Dr. Hayakawa, Dr. Kishida, Ms. Xiaochan for supporting our research.
