During this trip to China, I participated in the periodic meeting for François' langur conservation project in Liupanshui City in Guizhou. We decided to conduct another observation during the raining season and to deploy 20 more camera traps based on the previous research of habitat utilization on last November. I was in charge of the community investigations for a comprehensive understanding of the attitude towards François' langur from the local community. We will get started to conduct the interview after determining in the cooperation with Guizhou normal university. We aimed to figure out the population distribution and quantity of François' langur observation in Yezhong natural reserve. We also planned to establish a Natural Education Base near the reception center.
